Born in Genoa in 1984, I have always felt the need to leave marks of my passage.

Restless by nature, viscerally attracted to beauty of any nature and extremely dedicated to brooding, inner conflict, the cross-section of duplicity and the study of bonds.

The messages in my works embrace moments of life in its intangible reality.
Only perceived.

Through contrasts, textures and details, I represent the texture of relationships: my works, especially acrylics, and related studies on the intimacy of the human condition, often reveal a feeling of suffocating immobility and emotional captivity.

[Io/Es]

I move bidirectionally, on two parallel paths: traditional works (with acrylic, pigment, stucco and inks) on canvas, panels or fine papers on one side, and digital painting works, often coming from hand-made sketches and printed on Hahnemühle papers.

The works range from the most brutal and predominant black, up to opposing bursts of colors.

From the total pessimistic darkness, like the black days in which one stumbles on the everyday life, to the brightest colors of the impulses that, at times, our existence gives us.
